WHEN AN OLD-TIMER NEEDS HELP

All too often in our AA lives, conversations and situations like the following arise in one fashion or another. "Hey, Fred." "Yeah?" "C'mon with me. I've got a Twelfth Step call to make." "Okay. Who is it?" "We're going to see George. He's drunk and called for help." "George? You gotta be kidding. George drunk? Why, he's been sober eleven years. One of the hardest-working AAs I know." "Don't tell me. He's the guy that brought me into the program. And now he's the one who needs help." There is a long silence. Then, perplexed, bewildered, Fred says, "But what are you going to say to him? What can you say? What can you do? George has more years in AA than you and I have combined." "I don't know. Pray, I guess. C'mon. let's go." There is probably no more vexing, disturbing problem in AA than what to do or say when an old-timer slips and you face the job of twelfth-stepping a man (or woman) who has more years and more knowledge of AA sobriety than you. What's the solution? I've been on both sides of the problem and still don't know. When I first came into AA, my sponsor was a big, hearty, outgoing guy with twelve years of sobriety in the program. With his booming voice and quick way of moving, he pulled me after him into AA as a powerful magnet draws a particle of iron filing. He told me what to do, and I did it without question or hesitation. I was entirely ready, and whatever lengths he demanded of me, I went willingly. (A year later, I discovered he was a "by the book" guy, and everything he told me was straight from the Big Book.) I built a special pedestal for him in my hall of heroes. I had four years of sobriety and was living in another city when he (my sponsor and hero) showed up at my front door drunk. The shock almost cost me my own sobriety. I had no idea what to do for him or say to him. All I did, really, was watch him drink, a sad terror and helplessness filling my heart. Fear held me frozen. If he could get drunk, with all his wisdom and knowledge of AA, then it could happen to me, too. I felt threatened and insecure. Looking back now, I realize all I did was twelfth-step myself, praying to my God for help and understanding, praying this would never happen to me. My sponsor never made it back to the program. Later, I went out several times on Twelfth Step calls to "veterans" who, after six, eight, even eleven years of sobriety, had gotten drunk and were desperately seeking their way back. Some made it. Too many didn't. And despite these experiences, I still didn't know what to say or do. Then came my turn. After years of sobriety as a leader of Step meetings, intergroup representative, public speaker, convention platform headliner, and all the rest, I got drunk. The reasons are not pertinent to this story. The way I was twelfth-stepped back into AA is. Maybe it offers one clue, one way of handling a drunk old-timer, and others may find it useful when they face the task. I had left the country and buried myself at what I was sure was the end of the world, where I would never be found. I didn't go with the idea of drinking, but to escape other problems, which were beyond resolving. I fled to a foreign country, to a tiny village where there was no AA but lots of drunks. I joined them.

SPECTATORS IN AA

The Chairman strolled by the Hurry Back Tavern on his way to the regular Midweek Group meeting. Without shortening his stride, he glanced into the half-light of the little bar. Several steps past the doorway, he stopped short. Was that Larry sitting in there? He lighted his pipe and debated on what action to take. Larry had been one of the chairman's pigeons, who had come for help when his boss had served an ultimatum: "Join Alcoholics Anonymous and sober up, or you're through here." For almost a year, Larry had attended meetings spasmodically, leaving immediately after the meeting "because my wife objects to my hanging around, drinking coffee and talking about my drinking bouts." He'd never been on a Twelfth Step call and boasted that he'd never read the Big Book. However, Larry had stayed physically sober. The chairman razzed him occasionally with the old cliché about being in AA, but not having AA in him. In fact, just a week earlier, the chairman had said he thought a meeting devoted to "AA spectators" might be in order. Larry had stopped to ask the chairman whether this remark referred to him. "I'll be out of town next week," he commented laughingly. Despite Larry's attitude, the chairman liked him and had been secretly proud of his material progress in the past year. So now he retraced his steps and sidled up to the man slouched at the end of the bar. Nervously twirling a half-full highball glass, Larry said, "You were right. I'm just a spectator in AA!" "How long you been drinking?" asked the chairman. "About an hour, maybe—huh, Curly?" he asked the bartender. Curly nodded, then spoke to the chairman. "I thought when a guy joined up with your organization, he was set for life. You been doin okay for years, but here comes Larry tonight, at it again. Seems like just a couple of months since I threw him out the last time. Guess his cure didn't take." The chairman asked for a Coke and replied: "Did you ever hear of a chap who's had tuberculosis having a relapse? And having to go back to the hospital? Well, we're in the same condition. AA is founded on the fact that an admitted alcoholic has an incurable disease. So there's nothing startling about the trouble some of us have staying on the program." He glanced at Larry. "You see, some guys really try to work the program and still have a hard time. Then there are others who like to give the impression they're working the program, but they're actually just standing on the sidelines waving a flag. These flag-wavers—or spectators—aren't so easy to help. Matter of fact, I often wonder if they deserve any help. Larry turned to the chairman. "Look!" So I'm a spectator in AA. Didn't I stay sober for almost a year, anyhow? Now I'll probably lose my job. My wife walked out tonight." "And you're feeling sorry as hell for yourself," interrupted the chairman. He patted Larry on the back. "Give him another drink Curly, while I make a phone call." The chairman called the secretary of the Midweek Group and asked him to take over the meeting. "Got a possible Twelfth Step job to look after." He strolled back to the bar. "Do you want to take a walk? Or would you rather drink? Remember, it's your choice." Larry looked at his reflection in the mirror behind

We are not a glum lot! "Practical experience shows that nothing will insure immunity from drinking as intensive work with other alcoholics. It works when other activities fail. This is our twelfth suggestion: Carry this message to other alcoholics! You can help when no one else can. You can secure their confidence when others fail." TBAIC is a group of people committed to carrying the message into jails, detoxes, and other facilities; and we feel good about giving back what was so freely given to us!

We want to honor the memory of our friend and trusted servant, Paul D., with reverence. Here are some of the things that were said about Paul: Tom F ____ "Paul faced his demons and stood and delivered selflessly to the end." Buddy ____ Great guy that did nothing but give. Service work, jails, softball...he will be greatly missed! Steve(Drew Park) ____ Two of Paul's sayings were "this is an inside job" and "there's something to this recovery stuff!" And, once in awhile, during our talks Paul would say "Don't you see the beauty in this program when I keep my side of the street clean and daily be available to another sick and suffering, showing them not telling them, the freedom of the bondage of self."

Just a reminder, our next co-ed Keep It Simple Softball tournament is coming to Gadstein Park @ 8:30 am on Saturday, April 20th. Registration is $100.00 per team and cut off date is April 15th. (Must have 4 women per team) Make checks payable to TBAIC and take to Tim at Central Office. All funds raised go to TBAIC and are used to purchase literature for those people desperately needing it, in jails and detoxes! Come on out and support your team!

Anyone looking to get active in AA can give one of the coordinators a call or come by our next meeting on the 2nd Saturday in April, 9:30 am at Tri-county Central Office.

In love and service
 Janine M.

Then one day, coming out of the little market by the plaza with my half gallon of rum, I looked up and into the face of an AA member from my own city back in the U.S.—a man I'd known well. I scurried away like a mouse running from a tomcat. Of course, he found out where I lived, and he "dropped by just to say hello." Then began his strange way of twelfth-stepping me. He did it with silence. Total silence regarding my drinking. Defiantly, I made and gulped a drink in front of him. It provoked no comment. Not even a glance of surprise or dismay. He merely said, "I'm going into—(a major city some distance away). How about coming along? We'll have a night on the town, hit all the joints and nightclubs." I agreed. When we drove into the city, Sam said in a casual way, "Do you mind? I've got to stop at this place on some business. It'll only take a couple of minutes. Okay?" "Sure," I slurred, already half-bombed. We pulled up in front of a building that looked like someone's home. "Want to come in with me? I'll only be a minute," he said. Suspicion crept into me. "Wha's this place?" Sam was already out of the car. Over his shoulder, he tossed the words "It's the local clubroom for AAs." And he continued walking away. Slowly, I got out of the car and followed him—mainly, I guess, because it didn't seem to matter one way or the other to Sam whether I followed. Inside, the room was typical AA. On one wall was a large poster with the Twelve Steps. Another held a poster with the Twelve Traditions. Other signs with AA slogans dotted the walls. Sam was busy in one corner, talking quietly with several men and women. No one paid any attention to me. Nobody spoke to me. Not even "hello." I sat down, alone, far removed from the others. My eyes lifted to the poster carrying the Twelve Steps. I began to read them, saying the words silently to myself. I felt tears fill my eyes, brim over, and trickle down my cheeks. I made no effort to stop the tears, wipe them away, or disguise them. I wept silently. Then Sam was standing in front of me. "Okay, I'm finished. Let's go." He saw my tears but said nothing. Back in the car, he kept his eye on the road and kept his silence. Tears continued to wet my cheeks. Finally, I turned to him. "Sam." He looked at me briefly, then turned his attention back to the traffic. "Yeah." I said, "You s.o.b. You know what you've just done to me. You know damn well." Sam looked at me again, smiling. I searched his face and his smile intently, looking for a sign of snugness, cleverness, or triumph. I found only love and understanding. And still not a word from him. "Sam," I said, "you know what I need now? Really need?" "What?" "I've got to have a drink." "Okay," "let's get you one." We got me one. We got me many that night on the town, and not once did Sam mention my drinking, AA, or anything remotely connected with my drinking. Sam twelfth-stepped me with silence. Silence that let all my memories of the good years in AA flood back into my heart and overflow down my cheeks. The next day, I went to Sam and said, "Would you please help me get into a hospital so I can dry out? It'll take medical help. I'll never be able to cold-turkey alone." Five days later, still shaky as a newborn colt, I appeared at the front door of that building that looked like a home, knocked, and entered. I walked up to the first person I saw and said, "Hello, my name's Woody and I'm an alcoholic, → the bar. "Maybe some air would be good for me. Let's go. See you Curly." The two men walked in silence for a while. Then Larry spoke. "Why can't a guy be a spectator in AA and still get the benefit of the program?" "I'll answer that with a couple of questions. Are you ashamed of your association with Alcoholics Anonymous? And do you feel you're entitled to the benefits of AA if your association is one-sided?" Larry smiled sheepishly. "Now that I've got a few drinks in me, maybe I'll tell you how I really feel about AA. You know I was forced to join. I resented the program from the very beginning. So I figured I'd give it as little effort as possible. I stayed sober, but I did it for effect, just to keep my job, and by making a good living, keep my wife. But I didn't want to get mixed up in pouring coffee, doing Twelfth Step work, being secretary, or even doing any speaking. As for practicing AA in my daily associations...Well, I thought I always treated people fairly well, anyway, without AA." Larry paused and chuckled. "All right, I'll go your "spectator" bit one better. I'm what they call a knothole superintendent." "Is a knothole superintendent any different from a spectator? "He's more critical. He thinks he knows all the answers and how the job should be done. The only outlet he has for expressing his opinions is talking to other knothole supes. But the spectator is on the curb or up in the stands to watch the show. He's there to be entertained. Any criticisms he makes are incidental." "Seems to me," the chairman said, "there's one way the knothole superintendent and the spectator are exactly alike. Neither of'em adds a single thing to the development of the project they're watching, does he? None of their remarks or criticisms have any bearing at all on the way the event turns out. They're both nonparticipants, so how can they get any direct benefit from the activity they're watching?" Larry stopped walking. "You've got me, partner! Or did I get myself? Am I working on the Fifth Step? Now I know what I was doing by standing around the fringe of AA, criticizing the meetings and the members, and not taking any active part myself. I was riding my sobriety right into the ditch, that's what. I'll tell you something. When we left Curly's place, I was planning on going back." The chairman laughed. "I told you the walk or the drink was your choice. It still is, Larry." They walked another block in silence. The Larry said, "What made you come by Curly's tonight? It wasn't on your way to the meeting." "That, my good friend, is another story! And it might have something to do with a Power greater than ourselves."

Am I trying to 'practice these principles' in all my own affairs? Or am I simply complacent and quite content with just enough spiritual nourishment to keep me sober?

I would like to be a member of AA." I was home again. So maybe that's one way to twelfth-step an old-timer. Maybe you don't have to say anything. Just expose him to what he's left and lost. Chances are, he'll know what to say and what to do better than you. It's an approach that can work. It did for me.

☺ Back in 2004 our annual income was around $59,000.00 and our annual expenses were around $54,000.00. Today we have almost doubled both of these amounts. Why? That's easy. More Groups, more people in AA. In 1998 we had 174 Groups in the Hillsborough/East Pasco area. That was 364 meetings per week in our area. Today in January of 2013 we have 215 Groups with 600 meetings a week. Although we have lost some groups in the past year, that's still a lot of meetings and that's still a lot of Groups wanting material and more groups are being formed as we speak. This year to date contributions from Groups (February,2013) have totaled $13,093.91 for the year. That accounts for what 62 Groups out of 215 Groups in our area have contributed plus the 5 AAer's who contributed $78.77 in contributions anonymously and and the 43641.00 we generated from ticket sales, the 7th Tradition Basket and a raffle at our Anniversary Dinner. And the $126.00 from the 7 members who have participated in the Birthday Plan thus far. Also the $589.00 from the Old School Group Anniversary Dinner and the $305.00 from the 164 Group's 12 Step Workshop. Our Literature sales for February bought in $6,463.89 plus $40.00 in Newsletter subscriptions. Contributions were $6,165.32. Our total income for February was $12,631.38. Our Cost of Goods Sold was $4,389.27. Subtracting the Cost of Goods Sold from our February income left us with a Gross Profit of $8,242.41. Our Expenses for February were $8,657.15. Subtracting our Expenses from our Gross Profit gave us a Net Income of minus $414.74 for the month of February. As I have stated in the past, we are not trying to squeeze you for more money. We know we can always count on you. We just wanted to bring some awareness of our situation to those who may be new to A.A. or new to being a Treasurer or Trusted Servant to their Group or to those who do not understand what the 7th Tradition and Self-Supporting means. It's the nature of the beast...as our AA membership continues to grow in the Tampa Bay area, the demand for more and more material and services continue to expand and we have to try and strive to keep up with the demand. That is only possible with your continued support through your contributions, special events that groups put on for the benefit of Central Office and the literature sales. Thanks!
